The technical field is an electrical leak detection apparatus that compares a signal's amplitude level to a predetermined threshold value via a low-band-pass filter that allows signals of a set frequency to pass in a signal generator and detects the presence or absence of electrical leaks between a high-voltage circuit and a low-voltage circuit. Providing a control unit that sets the signal generator's signal frequency and the low-band-pass filter's blocked frequencies high even after the high-voltage circuit starts and after the low-voltage circuit starts and before the high-voltage circuit starts is not described in any of the documents cited in the ISR and appears to be non-obvious to a person skilled in the art.
